Abstract

Through this practice-based research I interrogate the terms community art, activism, social and digital media, as well as community and place. It is an investigation into both theoretical and practical aspects of community art practice and its connection to national and local policies on community, arts and digital media. It considers the increasing role digital technology and social media have in communities and community organisations, in particular under the guise of austerity, and how community organisations (do not) use social media and digital technology to encourage participation. It considers my position and role as an artist, curator and resident within the community that I live in and how, through becoming active and engaged with the place, I can develop a strategy for sustainable and long-term social engagement.

This practice based Ph.D. takes as a starting point the stalled housing regeneration, due to the halting of the Housing Market Renewal Pathfinder, in the community where I live. The research builds upon my experience of working as an artist, curator and arts educator since the turn of the millennium where, under consecutive governments have seen prioritise the purpose of contemporary art and its educational use as either to effect social change (New Labour) or its economic value (current coalition government). Through the creation of a series of participatory and digital engagement events and workshops the research interrogates and considers the connections and conflict between the 'physical' (public space) and the digital and supposedly 'open' (the online). The research will be of use to those who feel an increasing and urgent need to engage with their own community as practitioners as well as community members.

PEOPLE + PLACE

What community events would you like to see taking place in Saltwell?

What spaces and places would you like to see used more and how?

What do you want to know about the place we live?

How can we make Saltwell a better place to live, work and play?

What skills and knowledge can you bring to Saltwell?

The Saltwell Road Project (SRP) has been created for the people of Saltwell. SRP would like to know what events you would like to see happening in the area and what changes you would like to make. SRP wants to support and work with you to develop creative ideas in the community of Saltwell and make changes to create a better place to live, work and play.

If you are interested in knowing more you can contact us and find out more at:

How would you use the space?

Posted on March 21, 2012

To the west of Saltwell Road next to the main railway line to the north is three large football pitch sized spaces where housing used to be.

This space is to be built on with new family housing in the near future.

What would you do with the space in the meantime before the housing is built? What can it be used for? Community projects? Sport or cultural events? What would you recommend?

How do you use the site now? What do you do on it? If you don't, what stops you?

What would you like to see in the community?

We would like to hear your ideas and thoughts on how these spaces can be used temporarily, maybe a one off event or short term project. Through developing short term projects what long term ideas can be brought to the area of Saltwell for the benefit of the community? What do you feel is missing from the area and how can we, as residents, improve the place where we live?

some very good friendships with the carers and the users who have attended. There are so many different stories of success that have been observed during my experience. One concerned a young man recovering from a stroke learning how to regain the use of the left side of his body. He is now able to use his left leg thanks to the specially designed equipment, and he is able to ride a bike.

Newburn Activity Centre is committed to expanding its already amazing fleet of cycles. To help raise funds, we have organised a sponsored one mile bike ride which everyone can participate in, over the course of the week starting Monday 11th of June.

During my time at the Newburn Centre, I have been inspired by the wonderful people who have been in sessions. I would highly recommend this to anyone who might be interested or who are looking to volunteer. Sessions are on Tuesdays and Fridays between 10am till 12pm. The Newburn Activity Centre can be found on Grange Road or if you have any queries you can contact Neil McNamara on 0191 264 0014.

Through summer 2012 the Saltwell Community Voting Box was located in various places around Saltwell. Locations included Bensham Grove Community Centre, Dominic's Café, Saltwell Road Post Office and St Chads Community Project. Initiated by the Saltwell Road Project (SRP), the box was placed in each location for a few weeks at a time with a new question put on it every few days. The questions came from the community itself; so people could ask other community members and find out their thoughts on subjects that they felt were relevant to the community. Questions included:

1. 'What event would you most like to see taking place in Saltwell?'
2. 'What should happen on the grass areas until the new housing is built?'
3. 'What would you like to see in your local area for young families?'
4. 'What online support would you like to see available locally for young families?'

A good number of local people placed their votes concerning what they would like to see in Saltwell. Possible included regular music, film and art events, regular film showings, allotments for local people, a local website for the community to talk to each other, and the use of social media to advertise local events.

What happens now? SRP wants to work with the community to make some of these events happen. SRP is already working with a local graphic designer to create an online community hub but would like you to get involved too and make some of these events happen? Maybe you have another idea you would like to suggest. Do know someone who is already doing something similar and you think would like to work with us? If so please contact SRP on the below phone or email address and lets work together to make Saltwell a great place to live.

The Saltwell Road Project (SRP) was set up by local resident Ben Jones to find out what events and changes you would like to see happening in Saltwell. SRP wants to work with residents to develop creative ideas and make changes in the local community.

If you are interested in knowing more about The Saltwell Road Project you can read more and contact Ben on 07910 654714, or email him at thesaltwellroadproject@gmail.com.

Bensham & Saltwell Grows...

The Saltwell Road Project is currently working on a number of projects in Bensham & Saltwell and we are looking for residents to get involved.

'Bensham & Saltwell Cooks...' is a 6-month cooking project working with professional chef Rob Stewart where residents are developing a series of cooking demonstrations and workshops. Participants help to decide what the next workshop will be about and cook along with the chef. These workshops and demonstrations are being recorded and viewable online for residents to act as a community cooking resource for people to follow and cook along with. Each demonstration takes place once a month on a Saturday at St Chads Community Project, 1-3pm. If you want to get involved contact Ben on the below phone number or email.

'Bensham & Saltwell Grows...' is a food-growing project that aims to work with residents, community organisations, allotments and businesses to think about how we can use the spaces around Bensham & Saltwell. Inspired by Incredible Edible in Todmorden, West Yorkshire and which grows food in underused and derelict grass areas around the town; 'Bensham & Saltwell Grows...' wants to work with groups and individuals to develop community spaces for growing food. If you want to get involved contact Ben on the below phone number or email.

Bensham Digital Community Cooking Kit

Are you interested in showing how great a cook you are? Would you like to show other residents of Bensham & Saltwell how to cook a family favourite? Would you like to be a local online cooking star? We are looking for enthusiastic local cooks who would be interested in presenting short live cooking demonstrations online from their own kitchen. Residents would be able to watch you cook a family favourite or a special dish from their own homes and find out how to cook it themselves. All you need is a Wi-Fi connection in your house, cooking equipment, and be enthusiastic about cooking and presenting to other people. The Saltwell Road Project will supply everything else.
